
Table of Contents

Why We Must Answer the Question “What Is a Professional Development School?”	1
Kristien Zenkov, James Shiveley, Ellen Clark
Evidence-Sensitive Synthesis of Professional Development School Outcomes	11
David R. Snow, Siobhan Flynn, Katie Whisenand, and Erin Mohr
Pathways to Partnership: A Developmental Framework for Building PDS Relationships	34
Audra K. Parker, Seth A. Parsons, Lois A. Groth, and Elizabeth Levine Brown
Is it Possible to Sustain Innovation, Community, and Responsiveness in Teacher Education when a Unique Pilot PDS Becomes a Program-Wide Model?	49
Linda K. Reece, Alli Roberts, and Keri Smith
What is a PDS? Reframing the Conversation	64
Janna Dresden, Selena Blankenship, Bob Capuozzo, Allison Nealy, and Mark Tavernier
Making Muffins: Identifying Core Ingredients of School-University Partnerships	81
Rebecca West Burns, Jennifer Jacobs, Wendy Baker, and Denise Donahue
Considering Professional Development School Partnerships in Light of CAEP Standard Two	96
Drew Polly
Cultivating, Connecting, and Capitalizing on our Merged Spaces: Voices from a PDS	111
Jon Yoshioka, Vail Matsumoto, Lori Fulton, and Cesceci Nakamura
Advancing a Professional Development System: Evolution and Evaluation	130
Somer Lewis and Tamara M. Walser
Revealing Dispositions: A Comparison Study of a Traditional Pathway University Model and a Clinical Pathway University Model	153
Angela Danley, Natalie Tye, Karen Loman, Aprille Barlow, and Nicole Nickens
Graduate Teaching Fellowships as New Teacher Induction: School-University Partnerships’ Impact on Teaching Self-Efficacy	171
Sara L. Hartman, Christopher Kennedy, and Brian Brady	