

Table of Contents

Foreword to the Fall 2017 SUP Special Issue:

Teacher Inquiry in Professional Development Schools: How it Makes a Difference.....1

Invited Piece:

Practitioner Inquiry and PDS Work: A Reflection on 25 Years of Purpose, Problems and Potential.....5

Nancy Fichtman Dana

Section I: Research about Teacher Inquiry in Professional Development Schools

Action Research in Professional Development Schools:

Does it Make a Difference?.....13

Eva Garin

Developing an Inquiry Stance Through PDS Action Research:

Does it Maintain After Graduation?30

Stephanie Dodman, Lois Groth, Sophia Ra, Anne Baker, and Samira Ramezan

Collaborative Professional Development School (PDS)

Action-Research Classroom Studies for Change and Improvement.....47

Linda A. Catelli, Joan Carlino, and Gina Petraglia

Using Clinical Teaching to Increase Student

Achievement in High-Needs, Urban, Partnership Schools.....64

Gwendolyn Benson, William Curlette, Susan Ogletree, and Robert Hendrick

Section II: How to Conduct Teacher Inquiry

Simultaneous Inquiry: Renewing Partnerships and People

in Professional Development Schools.....74

René Roselle, Robin E. Hands, Dorothea Anagnostopoulos, Tom Levine, June Cahill, Annie Kuhn, and Colleen Plis

Genius Hour as Teacher Inquiry: Professional Learning

for Teacher Candidates and Teachers.....83

P. Gayle Andrews, Katherine F. Thompson, Conor P. Naughton, and Morgan Waters

Section III: Samples of Teacher Inquiry

Deliberate Investigations of a Flipped Class.....95

Rachelle M. Rogers, Douglas W. Rogers, John Choins, and Herb Cox

Code Blue: A Lesson in Teacher Inquiry

in a Professional Development School.....112

Erinn Bentley and Jennifer Gray

Section IV: Case in Point about Teacher Inquiry

Maryland's Journey in Creating a Culture of Teacher Inquiry Statewide.....120

Maggie Madden

Teacher Inquiry and Clinical Partnerships

Help Transform Teacher Preparation.....127

Laurie A. Henry, Lisa Hyde, and Marcy K. Kennedy